Minimum Distributions from ARF

Each year, a tax liability based on an imputed distribution shall apply for ARF holders aged 60 or over for the full tax year. Davy will deduct this tax due from ARF funds and make this return to Revenue. The rate of the imputed distribution which applies will be determined by reference to the aggregate value of the assets in an individual's ARF(s) and/or a Vested PRSA(s) on 30th November each year:

- 4% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of €2 million or less, where the individual not aged 70 or over for the whole of the tax year,
- 5% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of €2 million or less, where the individual aged 70 or over for the whole of the tax year,
- 6% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of over €2 million of the entire aggregate value - not just the portion that exceeds €2 million.

Actual distributions made during the year from the ARF may be deducted from the imputed distribution. Please note that it is your responsibility to request a withdrawal. If you do not request this withdrawal, Davy will process the imputed distribution at the end of the tax year. For individuals who have ARF(s) and/or Vested PRSA(s) valued in excess of €2.0 million which are not all managed by the same provider, there is a mandatory obligation to appoint a 'nominee manager' to oversee the payment of distributions and payment of any tax.

If you have multiple ARF(s)/Vested PRSA(s) with Davy, Davy will automatically apply an annual distribution to each account separately. Where you have multiple Davy ARF(s)/Vested PRSA(s) and you wish for the distribution to be paid from one designated account, you must confirm this to us in writing each year.

Please confirm if you would like Davy to arrange an annual distribution to meet the imputed distribution obligation.

Davy Select ARF (Execution-Only)

Terms of Business

It is important that you read these terms of business ('Terms of Business') carefully as they set out the basis on which Davy will act for you in respect of your Approved Retirement Fund ('ARF') and our aims in acting for you. You and we are bound by these Terms should we accept your application to open an ARF. These terms apply to the ARF service only and should be read in conjunction with all of the account opening information, including the Execution Service Terms (provided separately from this Application Pack), collectively the ARF Terms & Conditions. You should read and consider all Terms carefully. In the event of a conflict between these ARF Terms of Business and our Execution-Only Service Terms, these ARF Terms of Business will prevail.

1. What is an Approved Retirement Fund?

An Approved Retirement Fund ('ARF') is a tax exempt investment fund into which you can transfer the balance of your pension fund after you receive your lump sum. You may make withdrawals from your ARF (which shall be taxable). The key purpose of an ARF is to provide benefits over the duration of your life from retirement and they should be viewed as long term investments.

2. Structure of ARF

Under an ARF, you will enter into a contract with a Qualifying Fund Manager ('QFM'). The role of the QFM is to ensure your ARF is managed in line with prevailing Revenue guidelines and legislation and to account for any tax that may be due on distributions from ARFs. J & E Davy Unlimited Company ('Davy') has been approved by the Revenue Commissioners as an approved QFM and your ARF is held in your name by Davy as the QFM.

You should be aware that you will remain the beneficial owner of all assets in your ARF

3. The service we will provide to you in respect of your ARF

Davy offers an ARF developed in line with Revenue guidelines. The main feature of the Davy Select ARF (Execution-Only) is that it offers individuals access to the execution investment service of Davy in respect of their ARF assets.

This approach enables you as the ARF holder to have access to the investment services available through Davy subject only to compliance with prevailing restrictions on eligible investments for ARF funds. The manner in which we will manage your ARF assets and other features of our execution service are set out in the Terms & Conditions for Execution Service, a copy of which has been provided to you. We will hold and manage funds, equities, cash, bonds or other suitable financial instruments in the ARF on your behalf subject to your instructions as set out in this Application Pack. If you wish to add real property assets to the ARF, you can then manage the selection and other property management functions of these properties yourself, subject to the execution of a management agreement with us.

4. Transfers of assets into your ARF

The only assets which can be transferred into your ARF are:

- The value of retirement benefits not taken as a lump sum at retirement, arising from a defined contribution occupational pension scheme or a defined benefit pension scheme
- The value of Additional Voluntary Contributions ('AVCs') at retirement not taken as a lump sum;
- The value of a Personal Pension Plan/Retirement Annuity Contracts ('RAC') or Personal Retirement Savings Account ('PRSA') or Retirement Bond not taken as a lump sum;
- The value of assets transferred from another ARF held by you (or your deceased spouse);
- The value of assets transferred to you under the terms of a court order.

5. Taxation

Tax information contained herein is based on Davy's understanding of current tax legislation in Ireland and the Revenue Commissioners' interpretation thereof. It is provided by way of general guidance only and does not purport to be either exhaustive or definitive and is subject to change without notice. It is not a substitute for professional advice. You should consult your tax advisor about the rules that apply in your individual circumstances.

Based on our understanding and interpretation of current Irish tax legislation, any income and gains arising within the ARF are exempt from tax so long as they are held within the ARF structure. This provides an exemption from:

- Irish income tax, including the income tax levy;
- Irish Capital Gains Tax ('CGT');
- Deposit Interest Retention Tax ('DIRT');
- Irish Dividend Withholding Tax ('DWT') in respect of distributions paid from Irish resident companies; and
- Exit tax from fund-based investment structures.

Note on UK Investments: Your ARF is currently not entitled to UK Double Taxation Relief in respect of investments in UK assets. Therefore income from such investments held by your ARF may be liable to a UK Withholding Tax and any gains may be subject to UK Capital Gains Tax on disposal.

Note on Foreign Investments: Investments made by your ARF in some foreign jurisdictions may give rise to irrecoverable withholding taxes.

6. Statutory Investment Restrictions

Your ARF is subject to certain statutory investment restrictions. The purchase or transfer of assets will be treated as a taxable distribution (please refer to Section 8) in so far as they have been used for the following purposes and this will result in an assessment of PAYE on you:

- the provision of a loan from your ARF to you or a connected party;
- the acquisition or sale of assets from you or from a connected person by your ARF;
- the purchase by your ARF of a property to be used as
- a holiday property or as a residence by you or by a connected person;
- The acquisition by your ARF of shares or any other interests in a close company, or which would be a close company if resident in the State, in relation to which you, or anyone connected with you, are already a participator in that company at the date of the acquisition.
- The investment by your ARF in tangible moveable property, e.g. cars, works of art, wine, jewellery, etc.

The term 'connected with' used above as defined in tax legislation has very wide meaning, and includes your spouse, civil partners, parents, children, grandparents, grandchildren, siblings and their spouses, other relatives (and their spouses) of you or of your spouse, trusts you established, companies you can control, etc.

7. Making Withdrawals from your ARF

You can withdraw funds from your ARF when you require (please note Section 9 on the imputed distribution requirements). You may make regular withdrawals or single ad hoc withdrawals from your ARF. There is no minimum or maximum withdrawal. The ARF offers you the flexibility to vary your income drawdown to meet your changing needs in retirement.

Any withdrawal you make from your ARF is subject to PAYE at source and Davy, as the QFM of your ARF, is obliged to make the appropriate deductions. Taxation will be applied at the marginal rate, unless Davy has received confirmation from the Irish Revenue Commissioners that your tax credits have been assigned to J&E Davy ARF (approved employer number 9610102M). In the event that you wish to receive monies, we will make payment to you direct to your trading account with Davy or your bank account.

8. Note on Imputed Distributions

Legislation has introduced an annual taxable 'imputed distribution' which will be applied to the value of assets in ARFs. This means that PAYE will be payable on an amount which is assumed to be taken out of your ARF by you. The imputed distribution amount as at August 2025 is 4% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of €2 million or less, where the individual is not aged 70 or over for the whole of the tax year, 5% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of €2 million or less, where the individual is aged 70 or over for the whole of the tax year, 6% for aggregated Vested PRSA(s) and ARF(s) of over €2 million of the entire aggregate value - not just the portion that exceeds €2 million. This imputed distribution is applicable to ARF holders who are 60 or over for the full tax year.

Actual distributions made during the year from the ARF may be deducted from the imputed distribution to arrive at the net imputed amount, if any, to be regarded as a distribution.

As QFM, Davy is obliged to deduct income tax and levies from ARF funds and make this return to Revenue. Where you have not taken an income to the value of the percentage distribution applicable to you as outlined above, it is Davy policy to calculate the required gross distribution for the relevant tax year and automatically make this distribution payment to you, except where you explicitly ask us not to or where there is insufficient cash in your ARF account.

In the event that there is insufficient cash in the ARF to make this return, we will dispose of certain assets in your portfolio in order to enable us to satisfy the legislative requirements.

If by the end of the relevant tax year, there remains no cash on your account, then your ARF is subject to tax based on the imputed distribution. In this situation, only the tax amount is deducted from your ARF and you will not receive an income payment.

You can select the imputed payment (i.e. pay tax only) by instructing Davy in writing.

If you hold an ARF(s) and or Vested PRSA(s) with other QFMs, please note that Davy will only accept responsibility for the imputed distribution arising on these ARF(s) and/or Vested PRSA(s) where the aggregate value of the assets held in the ARF(s) and/or Vested PRSA(s) is over €2 million and Davy is the nominated QFM in accordance with s790D, Taxes Consolidation Act Consolidation Act, 1997.

9. Benefits in the Event of Death

In the event of your death, your ARF becomes an asset of your estate and will therefore be subject to the terms of your will or should you die without leaving a valid will, it will be dealt with in accordance with the intestacy provisions of the Succession Act 1965.

A transfer of ARF assets after your death is taxed as follows (as at July 2025):

ARF inherited by	Income Tax due	Capital Acquisitions Tax (CAT) due
Surviving spouse	None where transferred into an ARF of the surviving spouse.	None
Child aged 21+ at date of your death	Yes. Income tax at 30%	None
Child aged less than 21 at date of your death	None	Yes. Normal inheritance tax rules will apply
Stranger in blood (anyone else not being your surviving spouse or children)	Yes. This will be treated as a distribution by the deceased in his/her year of death.	Yes. Normal inheritance tax rules will apply.

10. Transfers in and out of your Davy ARF

No pension transfer charges are levied by Davy:

- upon the transfer of assets into a Davy ARF;
- if you wish to withdraw funds from your ARF or to transfer funds to another ARF provider;
- upon the distribution of your ARF funds upon your death.

Please note that other fees or charges associated with these proposed transfers may be levied by Davy in our capacity as Investment Manager and these are set out in the Terms & Conditions for Execution Service, a copy of which has been provided to you.

All requests to transfer must be made in writing to the Davy Select at: Davy, Davy House, 49 Dawson Street, Dublin 2.

We will work with you to ensure that assets are transferred as efficiently as possible. You should be aware that there may be delays in transferring some assets held within your ARF due to restrictions applying to transfers or other factors. In the event that there are third party costs associated with transferring your ARF, you will be liable for these.

11. Divorce or Legal Separation

The assets in your ARF may become subject to a court order, following a decree of divorce or legal separation. Your spouse may, as a result, become entitled to a specific proportion of your ARF. Such court orders can also be made for the benefit of parties other than your spouse (e.g. dependents).

12. Risks

WARNING: The following is a list of some important risks factors that you should consider prior to making a decision to invest in an ARF. The list is not intended to be comprehensive or exhaustive. It is for informational purposes only. Various other risks may also apply.

Pension risk

You are responsible for making some or all of the investment decisions in relation to your pension. Your choices may not be the best options. It is important that you seek independent professional advice prior to making any decisions which have tax, legal or other financial implications.

Investment risk

The value of your investment may go down as well as up. You may lose some or all of the money invested. Past performance is not a reliable guide to future performance. The ARF may be invested in particular securities, such as stocks or bonds, which can fall in value at any time due to the value in global stock markets.

There is no guarantee that the ARF will meet its objectives of providing for your longer term income needs.

Your ARF is exposed to risk associated with its underlying investments. The risks associated with each investment are specific to the investment but will include some or all of the following (this list is not intended to be exhaustive):

- ARF are a long term investment and the effect of inflation can erode any 'real' investment returns over time.
- The ARF may have exposure either directly or indirectly to non Euro currencies. Currency movements may impact negatively on the overall performance of the ARF.

- Investments may be adversely affected if any of the institutions with which money is deposited suffer insolvency or other financial difficulties (default).
- The ARF may be invested in securities which cannot be easily sold in the market at a fair value and therefore cash may not be available to you when needed.
- For investment in funds, there is a risk that there will be a financial loss due to the investment manager making the wrong investment decisions. The investment manager may choose the wrong asset allocation or specific stock selection or overall investment strategy.

Tax risk

Tax laws and regulations are constantly changing, and they may be changed with retrospective effect which may have a negative impact on ARF or underlying investments. No assurance can be given regarding the actual level of taxation that may be imposed upon ARF or underlying investments. Any tax information that may be provided for Irish resident clients is based on Davy's current understanding of the tax legislation in Ireland and the Revenue interpretation thereof. It is provided by way of general guidance only and is neither exhaustive nor definitive and is subject to change without notice. It is not a substitute for professional advice. You should consult your tax advisor about the rules that apply in your individual circumstances.

Income risk

There is a risk that an investor who takes regular withdrawals and/or imputed withdrawals over the life of his or her retirement is exposed to 'bomb out' risk, which is the risk that the income needs of investor may not be met by the value of his or her ARF.

13. Changes

If we are obliged to change the terms of your ARF due to legislative changes, we will write to you as soon as practicable in advance of such changes coming into force (if given sufficient notice), outlining the impact of the changes for you.
